Q7. Additional Comments:

1	The custodians are doing a great job keeping our school looking clean.	Mar 5, 2013 2:39 PM
2	Look at money, effectiveness, and morale. One thing that makes a difference is, as a teacher, I leave when the cleaning staff leaves at night. Makes my evenings shorter; I prefer the later hours. I also think that cleaning while children are in the building does not stay clean. Seems like we always have that "lived in" look now.	Mar 4, 2013 4:28 PM
3	I appreciate the district attempting to make positive changes in creative ways such as this as opposed to cutting valuable positions. This is very proactive!	Mar 4, 2013 11:46 AM
4	I think it is great. It is nice to be able to communicate with our "evening" custodial staff and include them as part of the school.	Mar 4, 2013 11:03 AM
5	When the vacuum/or maybe it's the floor waxer goes by- it is loud in the hallways. Several teachers close doors so that students can focus on instruction. it's like having a vacuum running in the house. During statewide testing (TerraNova) the floor cleaner came by and it was disruptive due to the loud noise.	Mar 3, 2013 7:54 PM
6	The noise and disruption level are not worth the tradeoff in savings. Most businesses would not tolerate this degree of disruption. It's unprofessional.	Mar 2, 2013 2:48 PM
7	All my student specials are in the a.m., so there has been no significant change to the after school cleaning in my classroom.	Mar 1, 2013 6:54 PM
8	Sure waste a lot of trash bags.	Mar 1, 2013 4:54 PM
9	The noise in the hall using a cleaning machine is loud and is a distraction to my teaching.	Mar 1, 2013 4:41 PM
10	i feel like our school isn't very clean in the first place. some times garbage gets left in the trash cans over the weekend, food, etc. Tables don't get wiped down, toilets get used again after they are cleaned at times.	Mar 1, 2013 4:05 PM
11	Since the change, the huge push brooms are parked in a corner or along the wall outside the Library doors. It looks tacky and gives the wrong impression of the school and the Library. Also, I noticed today that cleaning was taking place outside the Library entrance just as the students were trying to enter--i.e., the custodian was pushing the floor dust, etc. swept by the large broom right in front of and around a student's shoes.	Mar 1, 2013 4:04 PM
12	The floor cleaning machine being used in the hallway when we have students in the classroom has been disruptive. We close the door but it also prevents our aids from being able to work in the hallway with students.	Mar 1, 2013 4:01 PM
13	By "No change," I don't necessarily mean that I was happy with the quality of cleaning in my classroom in the first place. I'm not impressed by our current evening custodian.	Mar 1, 2013 3:59 PM
14	The negative changes are loud noises during the day and a very full trashes in the classroom. However, these are worth the inconvenience to save money.	Mar 1, 2013 3:58 PM
15	The BPO is the only one who cleans my work space so that is why I haven't noticed any difference. The noise is an issue but if it saves money than the	Mar 1, 2013 3:57 PM benefits might outweigh the negatives.

16	It has been very good to see the custodial staff. I have been able to share more information about cleaning of my classroom than before. Very good to see them during the day.	Mar 1, 2013 2:17 PM
17	There needs to be clear delegation of duties. Yesterday one of our custodial staff was arguing in the hallway with the BPO during the school day.	Mar 1, 2013 2:17 PM
18	The only disruption is having my trash emptied before 3:30pm. There is trash in my can when I leave and when I return the next day. It is emptied around 1pm.	Mar 1, 2013 2:08 PM
19	I am impressed with the custodial staff. Until they began working in the day I had no idea half the things they did for the upkeep of our building. Kudos to Luz and Martin for all they do!	Mar 1, 2013 2:00 PM
20	The services have remained the same or better. So far, so good!	Mar 1, 2013 1:52 PM
21	Some of the custodial staff does not seem to work well together. That is frustrating.	Mar 1, 2013 1:50 PM
